

University of Kent

European Theatre
Research Network

lānguāgē āts and worldmāking

TEACHING DRAMA THROUGH LANGUAGES & LANGUAGES THROUGH DRAMA

A half-day Conference

Oct 12 | 14:00-19:00
King's College London

Programme

This free event for secondary-school teachers brings together inspirational educators who work in the crossover area between Drama and Modern Languages. How can the two disciplines learn and benefit from one another? How can one facilitate learning environments where Drama and Modern Languages inspire more young people to practice the values of inclusion and intercultural dialogue? Come along to learn, discuss and network with like-minded colleagues.

14:00–14:15 Coffee and Registration

14:15–14:30 Welcome talk on Theatre & Translation by Dr Margherita Laera (University of Kent)

14:30–16:00 Practical workshops by guest teachers Anne Bérélowitch (Instant Mix) and Jayne Thompson (University of Kent): 'Teaching Drama through Languages and Languages through Drama'

16:00–16:15 Break

16:15–17:30 Consultation on a new teaching resource entitled 'Performing International Plays'

17:30–18:30 17:30–18:30 Panel Discussion chaired by Dr Ana de Medeiros (King's College London, Modern Language Centre) with Dr Sylvan Baker, practitioner and Lecturer in Applied Theatre (RCSSD), Essential Drama Editor Phil Cleaves, theatre director, author and translator Anne Bérélowitch, and BAFTA-nominated filmmaker and education practitioner Harold Raitt: 'How can Drama and Modern Languages inspire more young people to practise the values of equality, diversity and inclusion?'

18:30–19:00 Drinks reception and networking

Book for free at: <https://teachingdramaandlanguages.eventbrite.co.uk>

Support is available for travel costs. Please contact us through the booking link above.

Venue: King's College London

Bush House, (S)2.03

30 Aldwych

London, WC2B 4BG

